PROactive PRONUNCIATION

“CH” Spelling

The /tʃ/ sound is typically spelled with a "ch." We also pronounce words with the /tʃ/ sound ending in "tu" with a “ch” sound. So "ture" and "tune," would sound like "cher" and “chune.” Such words like "picture, nature, capture, statue, and fortune" are examples of this.

When a “ch” sounds like a “sh” /ʃ/

parachute	chalet	brochure
chauffeur	chic	chute
champagne	machine

"ch" can also be pronounced like the /k/ sound in these words:

chemical	chorus	technical
chemist	Christmas
chord	school

Being aware of these spelling anomalies will go a long way in weeding out the exceptions.
