PROactive PRONUNCIATION

“CH” Initial Sentences

I always choose cheese for a snack

The church gave to charity

The happy children are playing checkers

Chad changed his order to a cheeseburger

The good chap got a checkup at the doctor

Charlie needs to check his chair for chalk marks

Please chew your cheeseburger quietly at lunch

I chased the waiter so he could check my receipt

I dropped chocolate on the chapter book I was reading

Chuck, the dog, chose a big squeaky cheese for a chew toy

Don’t Chug your drink before you finish your clam chowder

I learned how to churn butter from watching my favourite channel

I need to finish the chart, but my phone is still charging

I still need to chop up the chicken and chill the drinks before the party

I’ll cherish the moment I win the chess tournament

No child of mine will walk around with chewing gum in their hair

The best chocolate chip cookies have the most amount of chocolate chips

Your child’s chair is beside the chest of drawers

Can you chill the drink before we bring out the cherry-flavored chocolate, please?

Chop it up into little pieces, so it doesn’t pose a choking hazard

I chose to chuckle at his jokes even though they weren’t funny

When offered chips, I always choose the cheesiest ones

Chew your cheeseburger well, and we can have some cherry pie afterward

I raised my chin when the bells chimed