PROactive PRONUNCIATION

ER Sentences

We were at work early

Never forget your first turn

The earthworm lives in the dirt

If I were you, I'd burn those furs

I heard a bird chirp for his dinner

The nurse found the thermometer

Bert is closing the firm early today

The firm will merge next Thursday

The clerk doesn't earn much money

Vern hurt his finger on his surfboard

That fern looks thirsty, she whispered

The clergy rode in the hearse with her

The water was frozen after the blizzard

Your pronunciation is easier to understand

Kurt is in charge of urban development

She loves to be showered with humor

The bird searched for a worm in the dirt

The government-run factories won't survive

PROactive PRONUNCIATION

It takes a lot of nerve to drive over that curb

Herb is such a jerk for dropping butter on my shirt

The first word of the verse is blurred on this paper

Irma spilled perfume in her purse, and now it's dirty

She was on the verge of giving birth for the first time

The girl works at a German church, stirring the soup

I'll grab a ladder to get the bird down from that perch

The teacher was searching for a spider on the birch tree

Can you confirm that you'll return on the first?

I'm eager to stop working and enter early retirement

I don't normally want to go for food after a rollercoaster

I never understood the other transportation systems

I've already ordered my hamburger from the other waiter

It's the girl's birthday on Thursday the thirteenth

My teacher permitted me to retake the midterm exam

She felt awkward when the boy presented the flowers to her

The purpose of the research is to publish in a journal

The sound of the crowd turned to an outburst of laughter

The first "R" words are more difficult than the final "R" words