Flap T
“Betty Botter”

Here is a familiar poem that demonstrates the lingual flap (when /t/ turns to /d/). It's quite fun if you try to do it quickly. Try it for yourself!

Betty Botter is making a cake.
Betty Botter bought some butter, but, she said,
"The butter's bitter."
"If I put it in my batter, it will make my batter bitter."
"But, a bit of better butter will make my batter better."
So, she bought a bit of butter,
better than her bitter butter,
and she put it in her batter.
And the batter was not bitter.
So it was better that Betty Botter bought a bit of better butter.
