PROactive PRONUNCIATION

“UH” /^/ in Sentences

I prefer this cuff much more than that one
I had so much fun at the club last night
My son laid in the sun all day long
I wonder how much chewing gum I had today
I took care of my uncle’s puppy
The volcano has begun to erupt
I hung too much in my closet
He doesn’t sound dumb at all when he reads a script
It’s up to us to discuss the important topics
Gus is always in such a rush
There’s a bump under my thumb
None of it is up to you
I’m so lucky I unlocked that door
Don was done with his work
There’s a beautiful duck on the dock
Bonny is great at baking buns
The bug fell in the bog
I told my boss my car had broken down and I needed to take the bus
I bought a new car, but I don’t know how to drive a stick shift
I bought a clock that clucks like a chicken each hour
The bear cub stole my cob of corn
The cop dropped his cup of coffee on the floor
I covered my cough with the cuff of my shirt
My dog dug the biggest hole in my yard

PROactive PRONUNCIATION

Playing with dolls is never dull for my daughter
I went golfing in the Gulf of Mexico
I got that sinking feeling in my gut
Never hug a hog if you want to stay clean
Let's go to the hot dog hut
I always jog with a jug of water
When I run long distances, my lungs have trouble
Her mommy dressed as a mummy for Halloween
That is not a nut
I put the puck in my pocket
Our new puppy ate a poppy
Rob rubbed his eyes
I scoffed at the scuff on my shoe
She sobbed when she dropped her submarine sandwich
He gets a sucker after each soccer game
The stock market seems to be stuck
I stomped on the tree stump
I wonder where he'll wander to next
He wrung the rag wrong, so it's still sopping wet