PROactive PRONUNCIATION

“EH” Sentences

Ed was elected president
Jeff never has any food left
The weather gets better every day
Everyone ate the fresh yellow eggs
She said I was too heavy for the ride
I met my best friend Fred seven years ago
Everyone says Ben is the best at everything
Bend your elbow to get the net out of the water
Ed, Ned, and Fred are best friends
I processed the check ahead of time
Check that every speck is cleaned off the deck
The women danced in elegant dresses around the Elm trees
The entire estate will be left to the heir
We must ensure that we elect the best president possible
Everyone went to the play, and it was worth the effort
Tell them that the letter was empty
I went west last summer, and I’ll go again with my friends
There are plenty of empty webs on the trees
The men left their equipment at work
Peg needs help to remember her pen
I can’t catch my breath whenever I see that elegant dress
Jen's lesson went well, but I expected it to end at eleven
I’ll make a heavy bet that the hotel has a guest in every bed
There are plenty of empty nests on that ledge of the window
Jenny’s best friend, who lives at the end of Elm Street, never eats eggs for breakfast