PROactive PRONUNCIATION

“OO” /u/ Sentences

I’ll prove it to you
Did you get a new flute?
See you very soon
Have a great afternoon
I think I’ll choose the goose
He got a brand new blue suit
That song was through the roof!
The flowers are blooming in June
Luke, your right boot is chewed up
Remove the students from the room
Thank you and see you again soon!
The truth will be viewed through lies
I’ll prove to you that Luke’s still in the pool
That’s a super value for tickets to the zoo
The soup spoon was replaced with a scoop
There’s never boring news in the newsroom
The kangaroo looked at the blue moon
She looks crude with that ruby in her tooth
Lou’s new blue shoes were covered in glue
I refuse to listen to music played on a flute
You can produce the new tune in my studio
The scoop and broom are useful at the zoo
Do you think it was rude to go into the pool?
Why do they use gloomy colors in this room?
The students watched YouTube with their tutor
I don’t need proof that you’re telling me the truth
Who was that rude guy who made the crude comments?