PROactive
ACCENT REDUCTION

Syllabic L and AL Words

A syllabic consonant occurs when a consonant takes over and acts as the entire syllable itself; it takes over the vowel before it. The most common form of this is when an "L" or "N" becomes syllabic in unstressed syllables. The consonant does not sound any different than usual; it just allows you to delete the vowel before it altogether. For example, "chemical" is pronounced "kem uh kL," and the "a" is essentially dropped. The "L" takes on the syllable.

Syllabic "L":

cattle	"caa-dl"	little	"lih-dl"
bottle	"bah-dl"	models	"mah-dlz"
chemical	"kem-uh-kl"	penalty	"pen-lty"
counseling	"cown-sling"	personally	"pers-n-lee"
couple's	"cuh-plz"	police	"plees"
double	"duh-bl"	poodle	"poo-dl"
isolated	"ice-layded"	saddle	"saa-dl"
journalism	"jern-lizm"	successfully	"suck-sess-flee"

AL Words:

actual	genial	portal
aerial	global	postal
animal	herbal	primal
annual	legal	racial
bridal	lethal	radial
brutal	local	rascal
burial	loyal	regal
casual	mammal	renal
cereal	manual	rental
choral	medal	ritual
dental	mental	rival
dismal	moral	royal
facial	mortal	rural
fatal	mural	sandal
final	mutual	serial
fiscal	nasal	signal
floral	naval	social
focal	neural	spinal
formal	normal	tidal
frugal	plural	total

PROactive
ACCENT REDUCTION

tribal	verbal	vital
urinal	viral	vocal
usual	visual

Sentences:

A sloth is a mammal
Does it have facial recognition?
He's very social
I attended the annual global event
I had some dental work
I have a moral obligation
I try to be frugal
I'll log into the portal today
I'm a loyal friend
I'm watching lethal weapon
It was a verbal agreement
It' not normal to do that It's a casual gathering
It's a mutual agreement
It's an actual original specimen
It's vital to the company
She had a spinal cord injury
She went to the formal gala
That's my favorite cereal
They are the rival corporation
What a brutal storm
What a cute animal
What a rascal!
What's the plural of goose?
What's the serial number?
What's your postal code?
Where is the local farmer's market?

ALLY words: The "a" is dropped for all

Accidentally	Pronounced "axe uh dent lee"
Actually	Pronounced "ak shuh lee"
Basically	Pronounced "bay sick lee"
Generally	Pronounced "Jen ruh lee"
Practically	Pronounced "Prac tick lee"
Alphabetically	Pronounced "al fuh bed ick lee"

annually	legally	royally
brutally	lethally	serially
casually	locally	socially equally	manually	totally facially	mentally	usually fatally	morally	verbally
finally	mortally	visually
fiscally	mutually	vitally
formally	normally	vocally
globally	racially
ideally	ritually

PROactive
ACCENT REDUCTION

Sentences:

He casually entered the data
He was racially profiled
He's mentally drained
I accidentally told my friend the secret
I am equally surprised
I am finally finished
I totally understand
I'll be brutally honest
I'll explain it verbally to you
I'm actually impressed with your reports lately Ideally you would come along
It was actually agreed on mutually
It was done manually
It was fatally executed
It was formally presented today
It's a decision that was based on morally defined traits
It's not normally done that way
She practically lost her mind when she saw the final episode of the season
That's basically all I can remember from that meeting
The fruit was grown locally
Usually I'm more prepared